3 About the Portfolio Manager

About TFSA

TFSA is a wholly owned subsidiary of Countplus Ltd, a publicly listed company on the ASX.

Investment philosophy

The investment philosophy is focused on the development of investment portfolios that aim to meet the long term cash flow needs of their clients.

Asset allocation decisions are primarily based on long term forecasts for both return and volatility as opposed to tactical investment decision making.

By applying forward looking long term return and risk forecasts, TFSA seeks to create portfolios that provide stability and likely to produce solid returns across a broad range of economic scenarios.

By applying those same forecasts to a range of risk based portfolios TFSA aim to create a range of portfolios that satisfy clients' combined with robust risk management.

Investment process

TFSA has a structured investment committee who is responsible for the development of model portfolios. This committee meets regularly to consider portfolio and Portfolio Manager performance, economic forecasts, and the risk environment.

The investment process relies heavily on the development of risk based portfolios designed to meet the needs of a variety of investor profiles.

The investment process commences with the production of a range of long term forecasts for major asset classes and markets globally. This analysis also takes into account the current valuations of these markets relative to long term averages. The aim of this exercise is to identify markets and sectors that may be overvalued and subject to price deterioration.

These inputs are then used by TFSA to create a series of diversified portfolios, with tactical asset allocations used to reduce exposure to sectors and markets that may be at risk of underperformance.

Forecasts and portfolios are subject to regular review by the TFSA investment committee.

How does the investment manager manage risk?

The Portfolio Manager is unable to eliminate all investment risk, but does analyse, manage and aim to reduce the impact of risks by actively monitoring investment markets and portfolios and through the use of carefully considered investment guidelines.
